Free Public Printing of Proof of Vaccination Receipts at Vaughan Public Libraries

VAUGHAN, ONTARIO – On September 22, the Province of Ontario will require fully vaccinated people to show proof of their vaccination status to access certain businesses and settings. To support those who do not have access to a printer, Vaughan Public Libraries (VPL) is offering free printing of vaccination receipts at all library branches.

Customers may upload their vaccination receipts to Web Print from home, access free WiFi at all locations, or log into a Public Access Computer at their nearest branch. It is recommended that individuals access and print their proof of vaccination themselves where possible to protect personal privacy and information. However, if assistance is required, library employees will be available at each location.

The role of libraries during these unprecedented times is unquestionable. VPL was the first major Ontario library system to decide to suspend service at all locations. The safety of staff and customers has always been at the forefront of our decisions. Libraries continue to recognize that their role is to provide services to all community members, create a space for learning, opportunity and growth and enable our customers to enjoy a safe and fulfilling life.

"Vaughan Public Libraries is pleased to provide our community members with the ability to print out their own proof of vaccination. We understand that there are many people in our community who do not have access to printing technology at home and we're happy to help them as we all navigate this new landscape. Our commitment to service and public safety has been unwavering throughout the pandemic and this is just one more initiative that shows we will continue to be there for our customers' needs."
