Vaughan Public Libraries (VPL) Unveils NovelBranch Book Vending Machine at Father E. Bulfon Community Centre

VAUGHAN, ONTARIO – Vaughan Public Libraries (VPL) is excited to announce the NovelBranch Book Vending Machine launch at the Father E. Bulfon Community Centre, offering a convenient literary resource for the community ahead of the scheduled Woodbridge Library closure for renovations. This cutting-edge self-serve vending machine is designed to cater to the literary needs of the community while the Woodbridge Library undergoes renovations, creating anticipation for the unveiling of the new West Woodbridge Library.

The NovelBranch will house approximately 200 books, ranging from new releases to popular titles in various genres, including Adult Fiction, Adult Non-fiction, Adult Italian-language Fiction, YA Fiction/Graphic Novels, Junior Fiction/Graphic Novels, Picturebooks, and Board Books. This initiative aims to seamlessly provide library services to our valued customers during the temporary closure of the Woodbridge Library.

Library customers can enjoy an interactive and convenient experience with the NovelBranch. By scanning their library card or entering the card number, customers can effortlessly open the glass door, explore the shelves, read book descriptions, and make selections. Returning books is just as straightforward—scan the card, open the door, and place the items on the shelf. Furthermore, customers can return books borrowed from other VPL locations, making the NovelBranch a central hub for literary exchanges within the community.

"We are excited to bring the NovelBranch to the Father E. Bulfon Community Centre, offering a unique and accessible way for our community to continue enjoying the vast literary resources VPL has to offer," said Margie Singleton, CEO of VPL.

The NovelBranch is stocked with diverse reading materials to cater to all ages and interests, fostering a love for reading within the community. As we eagerly anticipate the reopening of the Woodbridge Library and the grand opening of West Woodbridge Library, the NovelBranch stands as a symbol of innovation and commitment to providing exceptional library services.
